Trouble in the Camp.

The loco papers in Maine have much of their space occupied with labored attempts to prove there is no dissatisfaction in their ranks, and that the people are well enough pleased with the doings of the leaders and that they will, as usual confirm the whole at the polls. If, as these papers assert, there is no dissatisfaction and no cause for it among the 'democracy' what is the use in working so hard to prove that nothing of the kind exists. If dissatisfaction does exist, denial, merely, will have but little effect in healing it, nor are they a very honorable way of treating the subject.

The fact is, beyond all controversy, that great dissatisfaction exists and there is great cause for it. The leaders of that party have ridden so much at their ease that they have not once stopped to consider how the mass of the party were affected. They have pursued their own selfish ends regardless of the people, until in completing their contracts they have aroused the independent spirit of their heretofore patient followers.

In proof of this position we copy from the proceedings of a meeting of Democratic voters of Augusta published, by request, in the Augusta Age.

"The committee to whom was assigned the duty of ascertaining the feeling prevailing throughout the State relative to the nomination for Governor made at the Democratic State Convention lately held in Bangor, reported, that information contained in sundry letters and verbal communications of persons from various parts of the State, fully assure them of the fact, that the nomination does not receive the approval of a large proportion of the Democratic voters, but they feel that their interests and principles will be best preserved in the hands of our present chief magistrate."

The meeting then proceeded to resolve that it has become a common opinion among the people that the love of office too frequently guides many of their political leaders, who, from ambitious or mercenary motives, are induced to exert influence in opposition to the popular will and public weal. And they resolve that as Mr. Anderson cannot probably obtain the strength of the democracy in his own county, they deem it a privilege and a duty to endeavor to procure the election of Hon Edward Kavanagh as Governor of this State, and they earnestly recommend to all citizens of this state who desire the election of a magistrate, of pure and unsported character, who will be UNCONTROLED BY CABALS—who is not and will not be under obligations to give office to any man for the sake of his support, to use their influence to elect as Governor of this State, the Hon Edward Kavanagh!!

Such is the language and the feeling of a portion of the party at Augusta and their recommendation will be widely responded to in this State, and in this city, although there may be no open organization and outspoken resolve, there will be no little action in behalf of Mr Kavanagh.

Well, it is about time, we think, that some movement was made among the honest men in the Loco ranks to teach the leaders that they have not yet given up their consciences and become wholly, soul and body, their property.

Those who are fond of witnessing the successful application of labor-saving machinery, will be gratified by a visit to the new Looking Glass, Portrait and Picture frame factory of Messrs. Fairbanks & Holland at Pearson's Mills in this city. They have fitted up several machines, some of their own invention, particularly a machine for planing out a double O G moulding of the large size used for looking glasses. They have contrivances for sawing out the various bevel and mitre work needed in their business. They can take a long board, run it through the machine with the circular saw to get it the proper thickness, run it through the planing machine to form the double O G, lay on the veneers take it to the furnace and apply the heated reverse mould, and place it in the press, which will contain a large number of such boards and when full the whole is screwed down together and suffered to remain until dry; they are then taken out, smoothed, varnished and prepared for polishing; they are then sawn open, polished and made into frames with great speed.

It is said there is a great demand for frames and that a large amount of money is every year paid by Maine to Massachusetts for the same.—Now as they can be made quite as well and quite as cheap in our own State it should be made a point of patriotism, as well as interest to support Home Manufactures.

We learn by the Order that the address, on the celebration of the West India Emancipation, in this city on the first of August will be delivered by Rev Mr. Hedge. Lectures from John Quincy Adams, Hon William Jay Rev John Pierpont will be read; and in the after part of the day addresses will be made by several gentlemen.

David Bugbee has received at his Book Store and periodical depot the tenth number of Brand's Encyclopaedia of Science, Literature and Art. This work, in the neat and cheap form of the Harpers will be completed in two more numbers. Now is the time for those who wish to add this work to their Libraries to procure it

Miss Allen will lecture and give experiments upon the subject of Mesmerism at the City Hall this evening. The women we perceive by the notices given out are to be admitted free.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE PLANTS OF BANGOR AND ITS VICINITY, WITH THEIR GENERIC AND SPECIFIC CHARACTERS, PLACES OF GROWTH AND TIME OF FLOWERING.

BY AARON YOUNG, JR.

Number 15.

Description of Plants.

Ericace.

KALMIA LATIFOLIA. Linn. Mountain Laurel. The west end of Long Island, and the vicinity of Poughkeepsie, which lies on the river Hudson, between the 42d and 43d degrees of latitude, 'may be considered,' says Browne, 'as the northern limit of this tree. It abounds in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and is nowhere seen more profusely multiplied, nor of greater height and or more luxuriant vegetation than in North Carolina, on the loftiest part of the Alleghanies. It occupies tracts of more than one hundred acres, and forms upon the summit, and for a third of the distance down the sides thickets which are rendered nearly impenetrable by the crooked and unyielding trunks, crossed and locked with each other. As the shrubs which compose these copes are of an uniform height and richly laden with evergreen foliage, they present, at a distance, the appearance of verdant meadows, surrounded by tall trees.' Our own State presents at present but one locality where this magnificent shrub abounds and which has luckily been made known to myself by a call for an account of what was then considered as the Rose Bay, (described in No. 13 as growing abundantly at Cherryfield,) but which has been found to be the one under description and of equal interest, as regards the suitableness of our climate and soil for the growth of plants so much esteemed for their beauty. This elegant shrub in favorable situations attains the height of 15 or 20 feet, with a diameter of about three inches—though oftener met with of a smaller size. The branches have a reddish brown color and a dry deadly appearance, the younger ones bearing the leaves and flowers, a lively yellowish green or straw color. The leaves are evergreen, coriaceous, very smooth, with the underside little paler. They are oval, acute, perfectly smooth and about three inches in length and one inch wide—the many are of a smaller size. The petioles are short, soft and flexible, given off in an irregular, but somewhat ternate manner. The flowers present themselves in beautiful bunches or corymbs from the extremity of the branches; in general they are of a beautiful rose color, and sometimes of a pure white. They are always numerous, and their brilliant effect is much heightened by the disposed manner of the leaves about them and of the surrounding foliage. They are on long slender peduncles, invested with a glutinous pubescence and supported at base with very small, ovate, bracts. The calyx is small, five parted, the segments mostly tipped with pale red. The corolla is monopetalous, with a cylindrical tube, a spreading disk, and an erect, five cleft margin. At the circumference of the disk, on the inside, are ten depressions or pits—with corresponding protuberances on the outside—this circumstance alone determines the genus. In these depressions the anthers are found, lodged at the lime when the flower expands. The stamens grow from the base of the corolla and shoot outwardly so as to lodge their anthers in the cells of the corolla, as if to keep the flower spread—thus giving a fanciful resemblance to a tent. From this confinement they liberate themselves during the flowering period and strike against the stigma. The leaves of this plant are endowed with poisonous, narcotic properties, and have been used in medicine.—They are said to prove fatal to sheep and some other animals, but are eaten with impunity by deer, goats and partridges. The flowers are in full bloom from June till August. I am under grateful acknowledgments to William Freeman, Esq., of Cherryfield, through my friends Messrs. Smith & Sayward, for a box of fine specimens of this flower.

KALMIA ANGSTIFOLIA. Linn. Sheep Laurel. This laurel so common and plenty on our road sides and in open woods and pastures, hardly requires a description. The leaves are much narrower, slightly ferruginous beneath, always presenting an iron and somewhat stained appearance; they are in irregular whorls about the stems, the flowers in kind of lateral corymbs from the axis of the leaves. It is a shrub and rarely attains more than 3 feet in height. The leaves are poisonous to animals and it is said to be extremely pernicious to sheep. June till August.

KALMIA GLAUCA. Ait. Glaucous Kalmia. This is a very beautiful, but much more humble species than the two described, growing in and about mossy swamps 12 to 30 inches high, with opposite lanceolate leaves, sub sessile, oblong, smooth with a sea green maliness beneath, revolute or somewhat turned on the margin. The flowers like the other species, are pale rose colored, in terminal corymbs or umbels. The branches are incisive (two edged) especially the younger ones. One or two varieties are frequently met with even in the same swamp, but none with sufficient characters to entitle a new species—very fine specimens have been sent me from Paris—not common. June and July.

*In honor of Dr. Kalm, a pupil of Linnaeus.

Scrophulariace.

MIMULUS RINGENS. Linn. Monkey Flower. A common plant about wet places on road sides, and in open woods and pastures. Stem 1 to 2 feet high—angular. Leaves close attached, opposite, lanceolate, acuminate, serrate. Flower stems springing from the axils of the leaves, curving upwards—four angled. Teeth of the calyx oblong, acuminate. Flowers large, pale purple and sometimes dark blue; they are very delicate and easily fall off when the plant is handled. July and August. Common on the west side of the Kenduskeag

*Lat. minus, a masked actor, from a supposed resemblance of its flower or seeds.

Primulace.

LYSIMACHIA CAPITATA. Persch. Tufted Loosestrife. Pentstemon. Monogynum, (5-1). This is a very pretty plant growing in our swamps and meadows. The lower part of the stem is somewhat sheathing, and at the edges of each sheath, which are at intervals of about one inch or less,—are given off whorls of filamentous fibers which either float in the water or take root to assist in supporting the plant. The root is stoloniferous or sends out long white shining suckers, sometimes the size of a goose quill. My specimens show both of these peculiarities in a remarkable manner. The upper portion of the stem smooth, simple, little spotted, leaves opposite, sessile, broad-lanceolate, spotted; flower stems axillary, elongated; flowers in dense roundish or ovate heads, yellow, each flower six to seven parted. The heads of flower are few, not usually exceeding four or six. Very common. June and July. L. thyrsifolia.

LYSIMACHIA STRICTA. Ait. Upright Loosestrife. A very common, but elegant species, growing in swamps and on the banks of open streams. Stem erect, smooth, 1 to 2 feet high—bearing a spike or cone shaped bunch of flowers, about 3 or 5 inches in length, sometimes less.—Leaves opposite, lanceolate, sessile, punctate or black spotted with bulbs in the axils. The flowers are on long slender pedicels or foot stalks, decreasing in length from the base of the efflorescence to the apex. Corolla yellow, black at the centre; segments lanceolate. Calyx five parted. Stamens five. Stigma one. July and August. L. racemosa. Mich.

* Named either after Lysimachus, a general of Alexander, or a king of Sicily, or from Gr. lisos nashes, answering to loose strife.

A Child's Prayer.

The following sweet and simple expression of early piety is from the pen of Isaac Pray, Jr., of Boston.

Father! now the day is past,
On thy child thy blessing cast,
Near my pillow, hand in hand,
Keep thy guardian angel stand:
And throughout the darkling night
Bless me with a cheerful light.
Let me rise at morn again
Free from every thought of pain;
Pressing through life's thorny way,
Keep me, Father, day by day!

Trouble among the Indians.

A letter received at St. Louis, states that on the 27th ult. a party of the Sioux Indians made an attack upon the Pawnees, most of whom were out on their spring hunt. The wife of the U. S. Blacksmith at Willow Creek was murdered.—Also Lastapel, the United States Interpreter, who had been in that country for 25 years; Capt Blue, first Chief of the Pawnee Tappagnes, and father-in-law of the Interpreter; a son-in-law of old chief Monlin, and several other Chiefs and Braves, young men, women and children. It is also stated, that out of 41 lodges, 21 of the largest were burnt, and most of the horses were stolen or killed on the spot.

Willow Creek from whence this letter is dated, is 150 miles up the Platte river, and the Sioux are 250 miles above it. These Indians have exhibited hostile feelings on several occasions during the winter, and this attack on the Pawnees has been expected for some time.

The Boston Advertiser states that on the 6th inst. was spoken last 24, 46, 106 30, brig Ohio, of Belfast, 4 days from Guadalupe, captain, officers and half of crew sick: was supplied with poultry, bread, water &c. she would put into the first port in the U. States.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce says that at the destructive fire at Valparaiso on the 15th of March, the amount of property destroyed was over a million of dollars.

The steamers Portland and Telegraph have been chartered to tow the Franklin frigate round from Brooklyn to the Charlestown Navy Yard. No steamboat could be obtained in N. York for the purpose.

The Steamboat Penobscot made her last trip from Boston to Eastport and back to Boston in forty eight hours.

George M. Proffit, minister to Brazil is soon to take passage in the U. S. Ship Levant.

The Portland Advertiser states that Joseph Lunt, son of Mr. Peter Lunt of Westbrook was drowned on Saturday evening while bathing. He was 20 years of age.

An encampment of Odd Fellows is about to be formed at Portland.

From Lake Superior.

We find in the Detroit Gazette a letter, dated "Lake Superior, Copper Harbor, June 24, 1843," from one of the party of miners, now commencing operation in that rich mineral region. The writer states that the steamer Gen. Scott is to run this season either once a week or once in two weeks, between Mackinac and the Sault Ste. Marie, of which latter town the writer says:—"This place would be much benefited, and the interests of the country highly promoted, by the construction of a canal, only one mile in length, from the foot of the rapids to Lake Superior, which could be done with so small an outlay of capital, say not over $250,000, and it is, I understand, in contemplation by the proper department at Washington, to recommend its being made."

Later from Yucatan.

The schooner Wm. Penn, Giraud, master, arrived here yesterday from Sisal, which port she left on the 5th inst. The most important item of intelligence which she brings is that Commodore Moore, with the Texan fleet, arrived at Sisal on the 20th inst., and was to sail positively on the 7th for Galveston. The Wm. Penn left Sisal on the 22nd, and was bound for this port.—The two Mexican steamships had left Campeachy for Laguna, prior to the departure of the Wm. Penn.—N. O. Picayune.

NEW YORK, August 3, 1842.

" Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen: Under a feeling sense of gratitude inherent to us all when suddenly relieved from suffering and disease, I now, as an act of justice due to you, and with a view of relieving the afflicted, make known to the world the inestimable benefit I have received from the use of your Sarsaparilla. In the year 1832 I sailed from England in a vessel bound for Quebec, and while on the passage first discovered the disease which after proved to be a sore affliction; and truly I can say, 'from the crown of my head to the sole of my foot there was no soundness in me.' From the time first mentioned down until the present, a period of more than ten years, I have suffered all that human nature was capable of bearing. I have been under the care of the most distinguished physicians both in this country and in England, visited Bath, Cheltenham, Bristol and Gloucester, tried various specifics, among others a large quantity of Swain's Panacea, used sulphur baths, &c. As a last resort I was induced to wrap myself in a tar ointment, keep myself secluded, shunned by all, myself also stunning. I was induced to believe my case a hopeless one.

In August last, by the advice of friends, I went to the New York City Hospital, but was there told that my case was incurable. The disease now enveloped my whole body, rendering me almost helpless; the skin thickened and cracked, and blood and matter ran, and life itself became almost a burden. A few weeks since I was induced to use your Sarsaparilla by hearing it so highly recommended, having spent nearly $3,000 without obtaining but little relief. After using it a short time, I found myself better, and now, by using six or eight bottles, costing me less than ten dollars, I am well. Yes, I certify and declare to the world, that after spending near $3,000 in traveling and doctoring, and suffering more than can be told, I was perfectly cured by your invaluable preparation of Sarsaparilla; and I now recommend it to all similarly afflicted. Those wishing to know further particulars will find me at my residence, No. 27 Warren street, New York, where I shall be happy to communicate any thing in relation to the above cure.

FALES'S CYPRIAN HAIR TONIC,

FOR THE GROWTH, PRESERVATION AND RESTORATION OF THE HAIR.

No matter how bald a person may be, a growth of hair will be produced, and as naturally too, as the herbage grows on the plain, or the lily in the valley. This tonic is warranted to cleanse the hair from Dandruff, and every other accumulating substance. Is your hair dry and falling off—the tonic will moisten and fix it strongly in the head. Is your hair thin or your head bald—the tonic is warranted to satisfy the largest desires in thickening the hair in the first case, and covering the Bald Head with natural hair in the second.

It is composed of those remedial agents that restore the skin at once to a sound and healthy condition; when thus restored, you will soon discover on the head a short, soft, and beautiful growth of young hair gradually increasing in length, till it becomes as your other hair was before you began to lose it.

The question is often asked, from what is the word Cyprian derived? Ans.—from the word Cyprus, the name of a beautiful island in the Mediterranean Sea.

The inhabitants of that famed island, are as well known for their fine glossy hair, as for their bright sparkling eyes. It is known, however, that any other people, except those of Cyprus, have never used this tonic until its introduction into the United States.
